FREEHOLDERS ENDORSE NEW CHARTER; TO COME BEFORE COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

PRESIDENT WILLIS OF WATER BOARD APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO GIVE PEOPLE MARIN DATA

President J. B. Willis had directed the campaign committee to combat the Peoples Water company in its efforts to cause the dissolution of the Richmond Municipal Water district, the election for which will take place no Tuesday, the 30th instant.

At the meeting of the directors last evening at the city hall, the above members were designated to direct the campaign and they were provided with the sum of $225 by the board as a fund out of which the expenses are to be paid.

It is the purpose of the campaign committee to place before the electors of this city all the facts concerning the work of the directors since the organization, as well as what has been done by the board concerning the Marin watershed project. The board has signed a contract with the directors of the Marin district and they believe they have secured valuable rights thereby which the people of Richmond cannot afford to throw away.

Much has been said by certain busybodies about the board squandering money, but everything done has had a well defined object. The directors purpose showing what that object has been during the next few weeks and when all has been laid before the electors it will be up to them to say whether or not the work of the board has been worth the money.

CHAIRMAN LUDEWIG THANKS BOARD FOR WORK WITH CHARTER

As chairman of the board of freeholders, I wish to express my thanks to the members of the board for their harmonious work in framing the new charter and to the public for their many valuable suggestions to the board. I hope that all citizens of Richmond have interested themselves in the new charter, which I believe to be a good instrument and a step in advance for the government of this city.

Any person wishing to know the reason for a particular provision or section of the charter should feel free to question me or any member of the board of freeholders about it. We will be glad at all times to answer questions or explain portions of the charter.

O. R. LUDEWIG,
Chairman of the Board of Freeholders.

MAJORITY OF MEMBERS ARE FAVORABLE TO NEW CHARTER

Bearing thirteen signatures, Richmond's new city charter, which, it is said, will be more beneficial to the city's growing needs than the present document and which carries with it a reduction of the city council, an indeterminate franchise clause and the electing of a mayor, who will act in the capacity of city manager, was filed with the city clerk today.

The new charter was adopted and signed by the board of freeholders last night.

The two members not affixing their names to the new document were Mayor E. J. Garrard and John S. Chandler.

Chairman Ludewig, who throughout the entire charter framing procedure, has been careful to see that the city's needs were protected in every way possible, said:

"I believe that the new city charter will come closer to being a part of the city than the present one. The charter under which our city is operating at the present time, was adopted 20 years ago. Nothing stands still. You either go ahead or go back. I believe that had not this board of freeholders made the changes which it has, that the people would have immediately elected another board upon our retirement and set about securing many municipal changes."

Freeholders signing the new charter were: D. W. Calfee, T. G. Conn, W. H. Conn, Fred Neville, Alex. Ellis, V. A. Fenner, Isaac Lester, Ira Vaughn, William Ellis, J. O. Ford, A. C. Lang, O. R. Ludewig and Fred Schram.

Attorney W. J. Locke, who assisted the freeholders in preparing the new charter, said:

"To my opinion Richmond with the new charter will be provided with a much better legislative system than before. I believe that the members of this board have worked hard in their charter framing and as far as I can see have accomplished far as I can see have accomplished wonderful results. So high do I hold the new charter that I would be greatly pleased to have the board of freeholders give me a recommendation for assistance given them during the past several months."

The board voted $100 to J. O. Ford for his work as secretary of the board, and $250 to Attorney Locke for services as legal advisor.

BEFORE COUNCIL

The new charter, a copy of which was filed with the city clerk today, will come before the city council Monday night at which time that board will arrange for its publication. The election date at which time the charter will be voted on by the people has been set for April 3. It will then be sent to the legislature for ratification and will become effective July 1, 1917, at noon.

GARRARD'S STATEMENT
Coming in at the close of the freeholders' meeting Mayor E. J. Garrard said:

"Since I have opposed the new charter ever since this board convened I do not see at this time how I can sign it."

"You fellows have ruined a good charter. By that I mean you have

Work that so fatigues one that there is little wonderment that Pauline Frederick would appear to be exhausted after the day's toil. FREEHOLDERS ENDORSE NEW CITY CHARTER taken all of the appointive power from the council. That is a very bad move."

Ludwig—"You are wrong in that respect, Mr. Garrard, for the only offices that we have made elective are the city auditor and city treasurer. As a matter of fact it is the opinion of some of the freeholders to elect more offices than that."

Garrard—"Makes no difference; this board has killed the goose that laid the golden egg. As I see it, you still have two heads to your city government."

Locke—"You are mistaken Mr. Garrard, the mayor will always be subject to the people and the city council."

Garrard—"I like the indeterminate franchise clause and the perpetual system of voting."

Locke—"You will concede then, Mr. Garrard, that there are a few good things in the new charter."

Garrard—"Yes, I will, and although I am opposed to it, I will not fight it."

Neville—"I don't much about charter framing, but since I have attended these charter meetings and commenced an investigation into the charter work I find the new charter all right. Although I was not wholly at accord with the plans of the board at first to change the charter I saw that unless this board did something in that respect that it was only a question of a few days before the people would have another board of freeholders at work. The people seem to want the charter changed and I think the new one should satisfy their needs."

NOTES FROM THE PLAYHOUSES

OAKLAND ORPHEUM

Nothing but the high spot have been touched at the Oakland Orpheum in its presentation of big vaudeville programs during the last few months, the procession of rich novelties having been unbroken for so long a time that devotees of vaudeville now regard it as a commonplace thing for the Orpheum programs to be of the world-beating variety, week in and week out. The coming bill is a specimen of the magnificent entertainment the Orpheum people import from every corner of the earth for their patrons on the Orpheum Circuit.

Muriel Worth is not a graduate of any endowed or imperial ballet school. She is not the pupil of any queer looking foreign professor of dancing with a name made up of more letters than there are in the alphabet. She is an American girl who has perfected her natural gift for the dance into a fine art, and her success is extremely gratifying to those who have lamented the fact that Terpsichorean art in America is inclined to be sluggish in its advancement. Versatility is Miss Worth's long suit. She does not confine herself to any one style of dancing, but instead, in one program offers a composite of classic, syncopated and fantastic dances.

From the anthology of the Washington Square Players, vaudeville has selected a few gems. One of these is "The Age of Reason"—a bit of humorous perverted philosophy by Cecil Dorrian. The presentation of "The Age of Reason" is conspicuous for two reasons. The first—it has vaudeville an exceptionally fine little play, and the second—it has given vaudeville the two finest juvenile actresses of the period, the Tobin children. The story is well worked out, and written in an almost Shawian satirical vein. It is one of the brightest things of the day, and at the same time, it sounds a new note in dramatic construction.

Al Shayne, who until recently was the Shyne of Mathews and Shayne, is now a vaudeville single, and as such describes himself as "The Singing Beauty." Of course, the line is intended as a burlesque. Shayne has many shining qualities, but even the widest stretch of the imagination could not include beauty as one of them. He, however, can sing, and he is funny. Authorities say that not since the days of Charley Biegrow has a character comedian had such pliable facial expressions.

The tired business man and that class of theatre-goer who supposedly insist upon having their cares and worries floated from their shoulders by a sea of laughter or a hydraulic pressure of merriment, are some of these days going to proclaim Stam Stanley their administering angel. Stam Stanley seems to preside at the locked gates of Humor, and at his will, the flood of wholesome comedy that washes every form of depression from its hinges, is set free. If laughter is a tonic, M. Stanley dispenses the most beneficial remedy to curable.

According to a well known author, there is a voice of the city and according to every belle and beau, the waves of the ocean have the power of expression, and whenever they happen to play upon the sands of an ocean resort, it is an expression of flirtatious sentiment. Ronald Ward and Faron in their boardwalk skit, "Are You Lonesome?" have made this fantastic theory the basis of their mirth and melody.

The vast majority of theatre-goers who enjoy a genuine thrill will be enraptured by the exhibition of daring given by the flying Henry. On

WITH STATE LEGISLATURE AT SACRAMENTO STATE CAPITOL

Hooking salmon will be a new sport injected into the category of sports if Senator H. W. Slater of Sonoma is successful with an amendment he will introduce to the fish and game laws.

The appointment of experts by courts in civil and criminal cases and the fixing of their compensation is provided in a bill introduced by Assemblyman George C. Watson of Los Angeles. The bill provides that although expert witnesses are appointed by the court, parties in cases are not prevented from offering other expert testimony.

A bill providing for the payment by municipalities of 2 per cent of policemen's and firemen's salaries into an insurance fund for these employees is offered by Assemblyman

Paul J. Arnerich of Alameda. At present 2 per cent is deducted directly from the employees' salaries and placed in the fund.

Senator Harry Chamberlain of Los Angeles has a bill to introduce which will remove the restrictions in California from the amount of an estate a person may leave to charity. Chamberlain believes a person should have the right to give away as much of his estate as he desires. The law now prohibits more than one-third an estate going to charity.

Assemblyman William Collins of San Francisco has a bill which sets a minimum wage of $3 per day for employees of contractors on state work. Laborers on state highways and public buildings are particularly affected by the measure.

ZEPHYR REBEKAHS PLAN DANCE JAN. 20

A social committee of Zephyr lodge of Rebekahs at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. May Sutton, 142 Fifth street, yesterday afternoon, completed arrangements for a whist and dancing party to be held in Fraternal hall January 20. The committee in charge of the affair will comprise Mesdames Edith Nystrom, Myrtle Thomas, May Welch, Carrie Spierich, H. Urquart, E. Ribley and May Sutton.

STATE SECRETARY AT C. E. RALLY

State Secretary Harry Allen, of the Christian Endeavor society, will be one of the principal speakers at the quarterly rally which the societies of this city will hold at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow evening.

The churches to be represented at the rally are First Presbyterian, First Christian and Stege Presbyterian. In charge of the evening's affair will be Lawrence Banks.

A program containing a number of excellent musical and vocal selection is planned for the rally.

ELKS PLAN EXPOSITION FOR CHARITY

BERKELEY, Jan. 13.—Berkeley lodge of Elks will hold a three-day exposition in the old Elks building, 2168 Shattuck avenue, on the afternoons and evenings of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 8, 9 and 10 for the benefit of the Elks charity fund, and the managers promise a season of real fun, genuine amusement and a hearty program of entertainment that will cause smiles to drive away the wrinkles of care.

The executive committee consists of Dr. H. N. Rowell, chairman; Ed

L. Berg, Roy C. Long, R. R. Henderson, Homer Sweeney, George H. Martin, Paul Dragon and Dr. F. A. Bathin. The finance committee is Mayor Samuel C. Irving, W. E. Woolsey and Charles H. Spear.

The exposition will be similar in scope to the festival that was conducted so successfully by the Berkeley Elks at Idora park three years ago, and the committeemen report that the old club rooms will afford ample space for the accommodation of the guests who are expected to add to the enjoyment of the event.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES AND NEWS

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

Joseph Sharp, a graduate of the high school with the class of 1915, now a sophomore at the University of California, has in a year and a half gained the much coveted junior certificate there, which usually needs two full years of work.

Richmond's graduates who have gone on to higher schools are all making good, the percentage of the freshman students at the university for the last term being 1.94, an excellent record when it is considered that the average for high schools is 2.33. Among these students, Miss Meta Ludwig's name will be on the freshman honor roll at the University of California for an exceptionally high record.

Our graduates now at Mills college and at the normal schools are making an equally good showing, so Richmond has every reason to be proud of her schools and their work.

THE SENIOR ENGLISH CLASS

With the much appreciated cooperation of the public library, where an excellent list of modern dramas, now in the library, was compiled and printed for the students, the senior English class are now reading and discussing with much interest modern plays.

An aerial apparatus they perform a series of the most daring feats. It is their claim and a claim that has never been successfully disputed that they crowd more actual feats into the eight minutes necessary for their routine than any other team of aerialists in vaudeville.

From the corral to the grand opera stage is a long jump, but Pruitt, the Montana cowboy singer, made it in less time than it takes to rope a steer. Pruitt was a cowboy in the Sun River and Smith River regions of Montana. He has a wonderful natural voice with a range of nearly three octaves. On this account, he became soloist of the cowboy band recruited for the Minneapolis Land Show.

Y. M. I. AND Y. L. I. SOCIETIES ACTIVE IN SOCIAL EVENTS

On Sunday, January 21, a delegation comprised of the district committee of Alameda county and Richmond will invade Niles as the guest of Niles Institute, Y. L. I., to attend their public installation and banquet. The trip will be made in automobiles. The delegation will be chaperoned by J. J. Mulvaney, district deputy of the Y. M. I., and Agnes Grieg, district deputy of the Y. L. I.

Burke Council, Y. M. I., and Richmond Institute, Y. L. I., have secured a box at the Oakland Orpheum for their officers for the theater party on February 5. The local council will contribute their share in making the party a "real theater party" by contributing their pennants, banners and serpentine.
